

Patricia H. Chatman
Deputy Executive Director
Tennessee Housing Development Agency

In her role as THDA Deputy Executive Director, Patricia has oversight of the agency's Community Programs Division, Multi-Family Development Division, better known as the Low Income Housing Tax Credit and Multi-family Bonds Program; Section 8 Voucher Choice Program, Section 8 Project Based Contract Administration Division, Program Compliance Division and the Quality Management Review Division. Since coming to THDA in May, 2005, she has proven to be a strong supporter for ensuring the availability of safe, affordable housing for the state's special needs populations. She has also been instrumental in the implementation of the BUILD Loan Program and the Community Investment Tax Credit Program; both of which are designed to help increase the capacity of the state's non-profit, affordable housing developers.

Prior to joining THDA, Patricia spent more than 15 years serving in management positions with both state and local government social services agencies. She has a very strong commitment to serving those Tennesseans who need help in establishing and sustaining a productive lifestyle.

Patricia earned her undergraduate Sociology degree and graduate degree in Social Psychology from Fisk University in Nashville, Tennessee. She has also attended Vanderbilt University in pursuit of her doctorate degree in Public Policy Administration.
